

ANDRICKA HALL

The first thing one notices about Andricka Hall is her self confident yet charismatic nature. While watching her perform, there is never a doubt about her effect on the audiences.

When looking for adjectives to describe the multi-faceted singer, the words "sizzling", "sensual", and a "petite package of power" were uttered by some of her more arduous fans.

Her self-awareness stems from years of performing on stages across the globe, and extensive training in all areas of music. Also she is a skilled songwriter with the amazing ability to write for a variety of musical styles.

A scholarship to the Manhattan School of Music and her attendance at the High School of Music and Arts provided the foundation for the aspiring entertainer.

Those institutions not only gave the South Carolina native the diverse background, which has allowed her to float through a variety of musical genres, but also instilled an intensive work ethic.

Beyond her immense talent, her sense of professionalism is often heralded. It is also that professionalism that has Andricka Hall consistently working with luminaries such as Annie Lennox, Chaka Khan, Brian McKnight, Angela Bofill, Najee and Taylor Dayne. She has also toured with Freddie Jackson, Mica Paris and Japan's recordings star Toshinobu Kubota.

Never one to rest on one area of her talent, Andricka Hall has also lent her vocal instrument on numerous television appearances. Her work appeared on "The Tonight Show", "Saturday Night Live", "The Arsenio Hall Show", and "David Letterman".

Formerly the "frontwoman" for Deep Nation, the group recently charted a number 16 hit in the U.K. entitled "You Can't Have My Love" and the growing legion of fans are clamoring for more. As a solo performer, she also charted in the U.K. as well as U.S. Billboard™ with the single "I'll Give You Love" on SoulShine Recordings.

With her star ever on the rise, Andricka Hall is well on her way. With her seasoned talents, professionalism, sensuality and charm, she is more than equipped to handle all of the greatness that is coming her way.
